Statistics of the colored schools in virginia show that nearly 17,000 scholars are enrolled, the annual expenses of whose teaching will be about $100,000.

The new refrigerating cars are now bringing to New York the dressed carcasses of steers and sheep killed in Ohio, and the meat arrives in perfect order.

A. C. Hunt, not having been confirmed by the Senate as Governor of Colorado, that office again becomes vacant, and Secretary Hall is acting Governor.

A temperance paper in Chicago speaks of one of its favorite lecturers as Hon. Mr. S. Wilkinson, ex-Senator and ex-tippler. This is a title of honor extraordinary.

A physician in one of the London hospitals outraged medical etiquette by advertising his services and his charges, and the whole consulting staff immediately resigned.

A misunderstanding has arisen between Austria and Italy, concerning the return of Venetian archives and works of art removed to Austria when Venice was evacuated, and also to the boundary line.

At a Radical convention, held in Nashville, Wednesday, Myers was nominated for the Mayoralty over H. G. Scovel and Alden. The latter, however, continues on the track. Mayor Brown, Conservative, is up for re-election.

An anti-lynch society has been organized in Marion county, Kentucky. They captured several persons, and paroled them on promising not to return to their homes. They also hung a man, named Parker, on Wednesday, near Hayaville.

Madame Le Vert, the Southern authoress, is suffering extremely just now from an accident. Going down the stairway to cross the bridge over the rapids at Niagara Falls, she sprained her ankle severely, and has been a prisoner in her apartments ever since.

The New York Herald says, editorially: "Old Ben. Wade has been entertaining the people of Marietta with a sufficient amount of pot house slang to satisfy the vilest class of brains possessed by any political mob that may be gathered in the United States."

The President has ordered the Bureau of Confederate Archives, of which Dr. Francis Lieber was chief, to be closed. This Bureau was organized by Secretary Stanton, and contains all the captured records of the civil and military administration of the Confederacy.

Ex-President Buchanan arrived at home, at Lancaster, Pennsylvania, 22d, by special train, accompanied by his physician, Doctor Henry Carpenter, of Lancaster, and Colonel James A. Wright and J. M. Kennedy, Esq., of Philadelphia. He appeared better, but was quite feeble.

The Pine Bluff Dispatch says the trial of Dr. Asa Brunson, for the killing of Jordan Bennet, (colored,) was concluded on Thursday, the 22d inst., before Justice Nordman, and his Honor, Mayor Reynolds. The Doctor was held to bail in the sum of four thousand dollars for his appearance at the October Circuit Court.

In General Jackson's time, says the Pittsburg Post, the power of a bank with a capital of $35,000,000, was thought to imperil the public liberties. Now, hundreds of millions are combined in a consolidated system of national banks, on whose capital stock the people are taxed to pay six per cent interest in gold.

Judge Walton, of Augusta, Maine, decided last week that hop beer was not intoxicating, within the meaning of the statute, and that any kind of beer, which has to be drunk in enormous quantities to produce intoxication, does not come under the head of "intoxicating liquors," as specified in the liquor law.

A gay Lothario at Gloucester, Massachusetts has got himself into trouble. A week or two ago he was compelled to marry a young lady, whose approaching maternity he was the cause of, but since that time the similar claims of three other young ladies have also been developed, and their fathers and big brothers threaten to shoot him.

The editor of the Norfolk Day Book has created some excitement in that city by commenting freely freely on the way the National Banks are managed there. He charges that if certain cotton speculators to whom he referred failed in their anticipated prospects, the banks would suffer; but if they succeeded, things would be reversed and the banks would prosper.

A Washington telegram, speaking of Memphis-Investigating-Committee Washburne, who has just returned from Europe, and who is the next friend and guest of General Grant, that he has heretofore been opposed to the impeachment, but he is now of the opinion that the recent acts of the President will result in the preferment of articles of impeachment immediately upon the reassembling of Congress.

Charles Stewart was killed, through a mistake, at Dublin Depot, Virginia, last Tuesday night. It appears that a young man named McGavock had a difficulty with a negro during the day, and a party of the latter's friends resolved to kill him in his mother's house Tuesday night. Stewart went to the house to warn the inmates of their danger; but they were already prepared for it, and, mistaking their friend for one of the negroes, fired upon him, the ball taking effect in his neck and causing immediate death.

The correspondent of the Boston Post, in an account of a conversation with the President, says: "The President remarked that at one time General Grant strongly intimated that unless Stanton was removed he would be compelled to leave here, as he could be of no possible use in view of Stanton's overhearing and dictatorial conduct. The President advised him to have a talk with the Secretary of War, and perhaps they would understand each other better. He agreed, however, with the General, that Stanton ought to be removed, and inquired of Grant if he would take charge of the Department in the event of a change. The latter promptly expressed his entire willingness to do so. I referred to the rumor that General Grant had sysotually protested against the removal. The President frankly said that such was the case, that the General had written him a very kind but earnest note, in which he had intimated his fears of anarchy, if not revolution, should Stanton be superseded; yet, as he couldn't appreciate the General's fears, he had directed the change."

THE GREAT PRIZE FIGHT TO-DAY.

Aaron Jones' Benedit and Speech.

The great prize fight for $10,000 a side and the champions belt takes place, near Cincinnati, today, between Aaron Jones and Mike McCool. The Cincinnati Commercial gives the following account of the appearance of Jones at his benefit last Tuesday night:

At about ten o'clock Mr. Jones made his appearance, in fighting costume, accompanied by James Cusick and Jerry Donovan, his trainers and seconds. Mr. Cusick was in ordinary walking clothes, but Mr. Donovan was neatly dressed in ring costume, ready for his set-to with Aaron. The latter appeared to great advantage in his white tights and black gaiters. He evidently made a strong impression upon the audience with his clean cut, powerful frame, and thick set chest and shoulders. And his quiet, comparatively slow, but really cat like movements, when he held his hands up and struck and parried, and advanced and retreated, in the set-to, sent a perceptible thrill of uneasy wonder through the vast multitude, and evidently suggested the idea to every mind of the terrible conflict that must inevitably result when this skilled pugilist brings his strength and ability to bear against the greater strength, but undoubtedly clumsier movements of his antagonist. In his light sparring with Donovan he illustrated, clearly, his perfect command over both arms, or striking powerful blows with his left, fully as often as with his right. He exhibited a long reach and very quick action with his arms, while his body moved slowly and in a small circle. His open, good natured countenance, much more intelligent than the faces of the large majority of prize fighters, favored him with the spectators, and evidently won their sympathy. Donovan moved around very actively, and gave him a fair opportunity of showing his work. Mr. Samuel Joseph presented Jones his "colors," a simple sash of white silk, "as a token of respect and appreciation, with the earnest wish that in the coming contest the wearer might crown himself with the laurels of victory, and achieve a fame that shall last as long as the annals of the ring."

Mr. Jones said in response: "I receive this gift with pleasure, and shall wear it with pride. I trust that on Saturday next I may hold it as my own, and return with it and hold it always. I am much obliged to you, one and all, for your kind patronage, and I hope on Saturday next to see your smiling faces around me as now. The colors I might call a flag of peace, a flag of truce; but whatever they are, I am proud of them. May I, with them around me, return next Saturday night with as good a name as I have now. I thank you, one and all, for the kindness I have received at your generous hands, and if I should ever leave this country I will always remember it. But I hope to be able to live here, and make this place my home, as I now intend to do. Please accept my thanks."

THE RELATIONS BETWEEN THE PRESIDENT AND GENERAL GRANT.

Firmness of the President.

The well informed Washington correspondent of the St. Louis Republican telegraphs Wednesday night as follows:

The statement sent all over the country by the Associated Press last night, that General Grant had virtually told the President in the above letter that he would not execute the order placing Hancock in Sheridan's place, I am authorized to state is maliciously false.

General Grant has also informed the President that he saw no necessity for the removal of General Sickles, and did not look upon the conduct of Sickles, relative to the recent orders issued by him (Grant) on the status of the Federal courts in North Carolina, as even having a tendency to insubordination. The President replied that he regarded General Sickles' course as a direct disobedience of the orders of the Commander-in-Chief and of General Grant.

The above facts are derived from an official source, and it is but just to add that the President and General Grant discuss their differences in a firm but friendly spirit. They had an interview to-day, lasting over an hour, but it is quite evident that the differences between them are irreconcilable.

A GREATER THAN DEXTER.

The Trotting Prodigy that the Czar Brought to Paris.

From the Chicago Tribune.]

A few weeks since it was stated in several of the journals of this country that a great trotting phenomenon had just been brought out at Paris. The statement gave the time of the horse at 2:23, which was said to have been made without any previous training. The report was not believed on this side of the water, and wagers were freely offered that no such performance had been made. From a gentleman who has just returned from Paris, where he witnessed the trial, and who is of undoubted veracity, we gather the following:

On the visit of the Czar to Paris, he brought with him, among other objects of interest, a stallion which was a natural trotter, and which, never having been trained, had developed an extraordinary degree of speed. This was the horse Bedouin, an animal of Arabian blood, crossed with Holland stock. He has been in the Emperor's stables ever since foaling, and began to show the qualities of a trotter at seven years.

When the Czar went to Paris he took the stallion with him. In June last a trial was made of the speed of the horse in the Bois de Bologne, in the presence of a large gathering of English and American gentlemen, patrons of the turf. The track was a rounded rectangle, much the shape and size of one of our ordinary half-mile courses. To a heavy Russian gig, weighing a hundred and twenty-five pounds, the groom of the stallion, a man weighing one hundred and eighty-five pounds, drove the horse, which was very fleshy, and not by any means in good speeding condition, three times about the course in the time of 4:47. The track was measured by several gentlemen, curious to know the exact time, and was found to measure nearly five-eights of a mile. The stallion had therefore trotted a mile and seven-eighths at the rate of 2:23½ to the mile.

The offer was at once made by a number of our Americans to purchase the horse, and Elias Howe, Jr., offered $100,000 for him, it is said. The Czar refused to part with him, intending to keep him for breeding purposes.

Bedouin is eleven years old, fifteen hands three inches high, and weighed at the time of the above trial one thousand one hundred and thirty pounds. He had a beautiful head, limbs clean and very strong, with a tail sweeping on the ground. It was thought that, in good condition, the stallion could trot a mile in 2:11 at least.

The Law of Congress Defining General Grant's Power.

The following is the act which it is alleged is claimed by General Grant to give him such unlimited power. It will be seen that the orders are merely to be sent through him, and that there is no pretext for the assumption that he can stop or refuse to send an order. The only thing, with reference to General Grant, pretended to be fixed by the law, is the location of his Headquarters, the right to fix which is a prerogative of the President unjustly usurped by Congress. Section 2 of the Army Appropriation Act, approved March 2d, 1865, under protest, is as follows:

Section 2. And be it further enacted, That the headquarters of the army of the United States shall be at the City of Washington, and all orders and instructions relating to military operations issued by the President or Secretary of War, shall be issued through the General of the army, and in case of his inability, through the next in rank. The General of the army shall not be relieved, suspended or removed from command, or assigned to duty elsewhere than at said headquarters, except at his own request, without the previous approval of the Senate, and any orders or instructions relating to military operations, issued contrary to the requirements of this section, shall be null and void, and any officers who shall issue order or instructions contrary to the provisions of this section, shall be deemed guilty of misdemeanor in office, and any officer of the army who shall transmit, convey or obey any orders or instructions so issued, contrary to the provisions of this section, knowing that such orders were so issued, shall be liable to imprisonment for not less than two nor more than twenty years, upon conviction thereof in any court of competent jurisdiction.

At the York (England), races, Friday, the second day, the first race was for the biennial stake, and was won by the Duke of Beaufort's Vaulaer. The next race was for the Ebor handicap, and was won by Mackenzie's Mandrake. In the first race Saturday, for the York stake, the Duke of Beaufort's Vaulaer was beaten easily by Pearson's Achievement. The Nursery stake was won by Saxon's Vortigern. Healy's Strathconan won the cup.

THE AMERICAN COTTON CROP.

The Future Prospects of Cotton Production in the United States.

From the New York Times of August 24th.]

We have examined very carefully the crop prospects of the Southern States as presented by the local journals, and compiled by those of the cotton ports of that section. As a result, we are satisfied that the cotton crop planted does not promise an increase over that of last year, even without the usual accidents of flood, worm and frost. The principal reason for this opinion is found in the deterioration of the open land, and the fact that there is no fresh land being added to the arable area. That there is a withdrawal of labor for several reasons. There are comparatively few females or children employed in the field, and the freedmen prefer such employments as are consummated in less time and with more certainty than a cotton crop.

After speculating about the worm and caterpillar, and inferring not as great damage from their ravages as is believed, it goes on to say:

Our conclusion, therefore, is that the present crop will not materially differ in weight from that grown last year. It must be remembered, moreover, that there is very little of the old crops on hand, so that our exportable stock will neither in weight nor value equal that of last year.

An enumeration of the causes of diminished crop would be incomplete without reference to the withdrawal of Northern capital and enterprise largely invested last year in cotton culture. There can be no doubt that this adverse cause has been too generally attended with disappointment to attract or retain interest, when so many opportunities of investment are occurring elsewhere.

The influence of American cotton upon the market prices of the world has greatly diminished. In former times any one of the accidents which has befallen the crop of this year would have affected the prices materially in the markets of Europe. These calamities combined have, however, failed to disturb the equanimity of the cotton spinners. They have been trained by the late war to provide against a crop failure, and an immense impulse has been given to Indian production by the English railroads which now connect Madras, Bombay, Delhi and Calcutta with the interior, and bring for the whole of British India from the Ganges' mouth to the Ghauts. We may note that the East Indies have now more miles of road in operation than South Italy, Austria or Russia, and nearly half as much as France. The liberal aid given by the British Government, which guarantees five per cent. on all approved subscriptions, will insure the extension of this system, already very profitable as to have involved little or no liability to the Government. The effect of such an inducement to extended cotton culture has been enormous. The cotton commerce of Bombay alone has within a few years increased from six to one hundred millions of dollars. The supply of cotton derived by England from the United States was in 1861 seven out of eleven thousand millions of cwts., or seven elevenths. Last year the whole supply being 11,400,000 cwts., the United States has furnished 4,600,000 cwts., or four elevenths nearly. This is a singular reversal of the proportion in which the United States and countries other than the United States have contributed to the cotton supply of England. It is sufficient to show the comparative indifference with which England now regards the worm ravages, or short crop of the United States. As the late war probably contributed to plant the cotton culture in India, every short crop in the United States tends to establish it more firmly. It will thus console the English spinner for any temporary advance in the price of cotton, and render it impossible that when the home product of England shall be adequate to her supply she may even impose conditions upon the import of American cotton? The reversed relations between the American planter and the English spinner show at least that the English dependence may very soon terminate, and that cotton may be produced cheaper and more steadily in India than here. Such reflections tend to show the importance of restored friendship between the capital of one section and the labor of another. If the cotton manufacturers of America expect to compete for the market of the world they must have cheap cotton. Interior Texas must be opened up by rail as into the Oude and Punjaub. Our Government, instead of selling out the Southern railways as a penalty for public offenses, should reinstate and aid them as a means of maintaining American cotton supremacy. There should be a convention of cotton spinners and cotton planters to confer upon the extraordinary causes which have prostrated each from a position of prosperity, and to devise means by which the cotton contest with England may be waged in the mutual interest of each.

THE LATE KING SICKLES.

Ex-Governor McGrath, of South Carolina, his Clerk.

We had occasion some time since, to give our opinion of ex-Governor Magrath, of South Carolina, the executive officer of the State at the time of the passage of the Ordnance Act, which did not go as low down as the National Intelligencer informs us, but. The Intelligencer recalls the history, in which is that Judge Magrath, then Judge of the District Court of the United States for the State of South Carolina, upon the election of President Lincoln, announced in open Court that the election of a sectional President by a sectional majority, on a platform of avowed hostility to the freedom of South Carolina to assert their inalienable rights of self-government, and for the State to resume her unquestionable sovereignty, and snap the bonds which bound her to the United States, for the whole of British India from the Ganges' mouth to the Ghauts. We may note that the East Indies have now more miles of road in operation than South Italy, Austria or Russia, and nearly half as much as France. The liberal aid given by the British Government, which guarantees five per cent. on all approved subscriptions, will insure the extension of this system, already very profitable as to have involved little or no liability to the Government. The effect of such an inducement to extended cotton culture has been enormous. The cotton commerce of Bombay alone has within a few years increased from six to one hundred millions of dollars. It is sufficient to show the comparative indifference with which England now regards the worm ravages, or short crop of the United States. As the late war probably contributed to plant the cotton culture in India, every short crop in the United States tends to establish it more firmly. It will thus console the English spinner for any temporary advance in the price of cotton. It is not indeed

SATURDAY, : : : : : AUGUST 31, 1867.

The public is again sought to be interested in what is proposed as a panacea for all the terrible ills from which the people of the South are now suffering. The idea of "universal amnesty" is again broke upon the public ear through the telegraph, and the public press, as the great all healing medicine, which is to close up the gaping wounds of the country, and peace and quiet give to all. It is claimed that political disease will not live after its prescription, and that the Southern people will thereby be restored to their ancient franchises without restriction, qualification or restraint of any kind. The New York Herald is daily teeming with editorials favoring this, to it, simple adjustment of the national troubles. Universal amnesty is a good thing. It would have been wise to have proclaimed it long ago. Indeed, it would have been better if the approximation to it which the President's first proclamation on the subject, and his subsequent numerous special pardons constitute, had been substituted by one of general amnesty. There is no logic in the discrimination he has made between the pardoned and unpardoned in the exercise of the pardoning power. Indeed the absence of it has been so palpable, as to subject the President to the imputation in many cases of permitting his personal "feelings," and those of the men, who have influence with him, to draw the line of demarcation. In other cases men of particular classes are held in suspense, it is said, for the not very creditable device of using them to show that he has not yet fully made up his mind to allow "treason to go unpunished." Therefore we think a general amnesty would have been more creditable, and that at this time it is very desirable. But will it accomplish all the Herald and others claim for it? In other words, will it it make "the work of reconstruction complete," as the Herald says it will? It can be plead in bar against trial and conviction in the United States Courts, on frivolous and vexatious indictments for treason, which the Grand Juries, after they become, as they are in Virginia, under the control of Radicals and negroes, may concoct for our punishment and annoyance. It can be plead in bar against confiscation; for, under the Constitution, a trial and conviction for treason must be had before confiscation can ensue as a punishment. All this it can do, unless, in the future, the Radicals obtain supreme control of all the branches of the Government, and affirm the doctrine of Mr. THADEUS STEVENS, that the non-represented States are held by virtue of the war-making power as conquered territory, and that its offending people are to be tried by Military Commissions, and the penalties confiscation, and all are to be prescribed by those tribunals according to their own discretion, independent of and outside of the Constitution. It is true that the repeal by the last Congress of the second section of the act of 1862 known as the amnesty act, is claimed by the Radicals to prevent the President from issuing a general proclamation of amnesty. But this amounts to nothing as the power of the President to perform such an act is derived from the Constitution and is not affected by the act of Congress. To this extent "General Amnesty" will do a good service, and should be at once proclaimed. But it will not complete reconstruction. It will not restore the franchise to the white men of this and the other Southern States who are now proscribed from its exercise. It will not protect that class of men in this State, against the proposed indemnity bill, and the other infamous schemes of villainy and fraud which the Radical State Government and its Legislature may concoct for the annoyance and oppression of the disfranchised tax payers of the State. It will not give them the right to hold office in the Southern States, or under the United States, as they had before the war. It does not wipe out test oaths either in the States or under the General Government, but leaves them standing, in all their bruitish insolence, as a barrier against the representative men of the South becoming the agencies of their people in making and executing laws. In fact, it accomplishes nothing but what we have stated, and we are at a loss to discover by what process of ratiocination so much is claimed as the necessary result of its complete exercise by the President.

THE organs of the Radical faction, complain bitterly of a want of faith in offering to pay the bonds of the Government in greenbacks. Could any thing be more absurd? What did the bonds themselves bring more than "greenbacks?" Inasmuch as the bonds were good for "greenbacks" why shall not the latter be good in the redemption of the bonds? Suppose the Government has promised to pay these bonds in specie? Are not the "greenbacks" protected by a similar promise? Are not the greenbacks decided by the Supreme Court to be a legal tender, even in payment of debts, the subject of special contracts and agreed by them, to be discharged in specie, and in case of debts contracted before the existence of any such thing as greenbacks when nothing was legally held to be a lawful tender but gold and silver? In fact has not that court determined them to be a legal tender in any character of debt? If then they are a legal tender against obligations due the citizens, why should they not have the same effect in discharging all the indebtedness of the Government? Certainly the relations of the Government toward its bond creditors are not more delicate and sensitive, or possessed of a different standard of moral essence, than those existing between it and its other creditors, or those existing between honorable men, and governing the commercial transactions of every day. We can not therefore see why the bondholder should object to taking legal tenders from the Government for his bonds, when these carry the same obligation to be discharged in specie as the bonds, and when the working man and citizen of all classes according to the ruling of the highest judicial authority of that same Government is compelled to take those legal tenders for debts, equally as sacred as those bonds due the bondholders. Therefore, we hope this plan will be thoroughly discussed and that the popular voice, which we believe to be in favor of it, will be made effective, and that the draft upon the people for the payment of the interests on these bonds, which will soon require $150,000,000 per annum in specie, will speedily be stopped. The voters in the Northwest are becoming aroused on the subject, and the Cincinnati Commercial, the ablest of the Radical organs, confesses its alarm at the hold this plan is taking upon the popular favor. It confesses that the people cannot be induced to much longer stand the draft upon them to pay the interest on bonds held by the National Banks. This interest alone in specie amounts, we believe, to $20,000,000 per annum. Convert these bonds into legal tender and you get rid of this tribute to these National Bank monopolies; change over $300,000,000 of interest bearing debt, now held by them, into noninterest bearing legal tenders and get rid of these ulcers upon the financial system of the country. The quick return to specie payments, depends on the industry of the country and its productions. The true policy is to take up the bonds as rapidly as possible, so that taxation may operate more equably on all. The United States bonds being relieved from taxation, the sooner they are paid off the greater relief it will be to the country.

J. W. Winter, clerk in the Army Paymaster's office, has been arrested, charged with forging a draft for three thousand dollars on the Treasury Department.

A Canadian named Reid, while lying drunk, Wednesday, on the track near the Chattanooga depot, was run over by a locomotive and both his legs cut off. His wounds are fatal.

In the event that Governor Helm, on account of sickness cannot with safety to himself go to Frankfort, Governor Brownlette has expressed his willingness and intention to go down to Elizabethtown, attend the inauguration there, and turn over the affairs of the State.

Sheridan is making the most of the time he has left. He removed on the 28th, S. Crosby, Commissioner of Land Office; W. L. Robert's, Comptroller; M. H. Royston, Treasurer; Willis H. Walters, Attorney General, of Texas. The following have been appointed in their places: Joseph Spencer, M. C. Hamilton, John T. Alexander.

Mike McCoole and party arrived at Lawrenceburg, Indiana, Thursday morning, on the early St. Louis train, and will remain there awaiting the preliminaries to be arranged for the great prize fight. A Nashville dispatch to the Louisville Courier, dated 29th, says: A negro man was arrested today, charged not only with perpetrating a rape on three little girls, under ten years of age, but also giving to such a loathsome disease. For the purpose of accomplishing his hellish purpose he decoyed the children into a church. The proofs of his guilt are indisputable.

Brigadier General Cooper, of the "loil molish," professes to have received the affidavits of two soldiers who were driven away from Hartsville, Sumner county, because they had belonged to the State Guards; also an application for a force of fifty militia, by some cowardly Radicals, to be stationed at Gallatin.

Wade Hampton, in a long letter, argues against the injustice and unconstitutionality of the Cooperational plan of reorganization. While anxious for restoration, he prefers military rule to the proffered terms. He denies the right of Congress to interfere with suffrage in the States, but favors impartial suffrage. He advises the people to register and vote against the convention.

The Nashville correspondent of the Louisville Courier tells that an excursion party which started from Bridgeport to Jasper, day before yesterday, quarreled among themselves while on board the train. Nothing very serious occurred until they arrived at their destination, when pistols were drawn and a general firing commenced. Over fifty shots were fired during the melee, and seven or eight persons wounded—one supposed mortally. Whisky, not politics, the cause.

To insure, as far as practicable, prompt payment of such claims, and at the same time to still more carefully guard against frauds, officers who sign and identify discharge papers will instruct the soldier to present them to the chief pay district in which he is serving at the time of his discharge, or if he prefer it, to some other chief of a pay district, the officer will then immediately notify, through another channel than the hands of the man discharged, the paymaster designated, of the fact of such discharge, and date, name, regiment and company of the soldier, as set forth in the papers. No payments will be made on the discharge of any paymaster, except on receipt of such notification, unless otherwise reasonably satisfied of their genuineness and the personal identity of claimant.

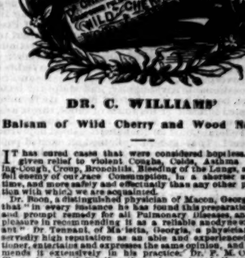
COUGHS, COLDS & CONSUMPTION



DR. C. WILLIAMS'

Balsam of Wild Cherry and Wood Naptha.

IT has cured cases that were considered hopeless. It has given relief to violent Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Whooping-Cough, Croup, Bronchitis, Bleeding of the Lungs, and that fell scourge of our climate, Consumption, in a shorter space of time, and more safely and effectually than any other preparation with which we are acquainted.

Dr. Boon, a distinguished physician of Macon, Georgia, says that "in every instance he has found this preparation a safe and prompt remedy for all Pulmonary diseases, and takes pleasure in recommending it as a reliable and effective expectorant." Dr. Tennant, of Marietta, Georgia, a physician of deservedly high reputation as an able and experienced practitioner, emphatically and expresses the same opinion, and recommends it extensively in his practice." Dr. F. M. Cohen, of Texas, formerly of Mobile, Alabama, a partner in the extensive wholesale and importing drug house of P. M. Cohen & Co., recommends it in the highest terms, and says this preparation has the highest character in that city, and that he uses it altogether in his family with invariable success.

DEWOLVILLE, ALA., August 11, 1867.

DR. WILLIAMS—Dear Sir—Please send us a half gross of your Balsam of Wild Cherry and Wood Naptha, as soon as possible, by express. I am out and needing it very much. I have been recommending it, and now has a pretty good name here; those that have tried it like it better than any preparation of the kind. Hoping to hear from you very soon we are respectfully,

THESE different medicines represent the most recent medical discoveries, founded on the principles of chemistry and therapeutics. THE MURDER OF DR. RAMSEY.

Progress of Public Opinion.

We yesterday express d public opinion when we referred to the police proceedure with reference to the murder of Dr. Ramsey. The public saw no necessity for hunting or (also reports; the public saw no necessity for some arrests that were made, and thought that if any one was arrested on suspicion of being either principal or accessory, it should be the man who was with the murdered man a sh rt time before the tragedy, and upon whom a number of circumstances reflected unfavorably. When saying this as the current thought and expression of the public, we were careful to say that neither improper association or no other past circumstances should induce the belief that certainly the suspected party was guilty. We said the public demanded a thorough investigation. We said that there was more suspicion, in the public mind, of Mr. Clark than of the parties who had been arrested, but he might be entirely innocent, and should not have prejudice arrayed against him.

We mentioned, as a rumor, that Mr. Clark had a bill of sale of Doctor Ramsey's property, and that this gave a plausible suspicion of motive for the murder, if none other was found. If, according to one story, Doctor Ramsey was robbed, then robbery may have inspired the murder. If, according to another story, Doctor Ramsey was not robbed, then the profit to inure to Mr. Clark might give ground for suspicion. In the former case it was not at all likely that Clark could be the guilty party, as he must have known that Ramsey had very little money. That he could from an other motive have killed Ramsey was possible. Circumstances of a private character might have caused secret ill feeling between them. The bill of sale was a possible motive. These facts were not inferred as demonstrating the guilt of Mr. Clark, but simply as demanding investigation. Yesterday it was reported that to refute the suspicions, Mr. Clark explained the bill of sale matter as an ordinary business transaction on second day, Doctor Ramsey, and brings proof to show that he did not leave Bolton's until after the time when Ramsey must have been murdered. Yesterday it was reported on the streets that several of the jurors on the inquest were inclined to suspect Clark, from his colloquy with the negro at the bridge, his non concerning the spot where Ramsey was killed, when he rode over it, and his manner when the body was found. Mr. Clark explains that the negro hailed him to tell of the wounded horse, and that it was dark when he rode over that part of the road where Ramsey was killed. These are circumstances that could readily account for the manner of Clark, whether he is innocent or guilty of this particular crime.

A point made, yesterday, against Clark was information given to the police that Clark has for six months wished Ramsey to go out to that neighborhood, but this might readily be without intent to murder.

Some new facts in Clark's favor, that have come to light, are that on the morning of the murder a suspicious looking white man, who was not Clark, was in the vicinity of where the crime was committed, and had with him a shot gun and a pistol. He wished to sell the pistol.

The murderer had stayed behind the blind or ambush, when he waited for his victim, for some time. He had eaten a lunch that had been rolled up in a New York Ledger. Another circumstance that complicates this case is the fact that a blind or ambush exactly like that from behind which Dr. Ramsey was shot has been found a mile and a half distant on the LaGrange road.

A man living not far from the scene of the murder heard the shots that killed Ramsey. It was then about five o'clock.

When Mrs. Ramsey found Clark bolts on Ramsey's furniture was written, nothing was said to the attorney who drew it up, relative to any money loaned to Ramsey by Clark.

A colored man who lives in the vicinity of the scene of the murder, stated since that he was in a field gathering cobby, and saw a man coming from where Dr. Ramsey pulled off his horse, and beaten over the head with the club. Upon being questioned by the officers, the negro has got scared, and now says that he didn't see anything.

Mrs. Ramsey was premature ly confined, yesterday, and gave birth to a child which, singularly, has a marking on the head resembling the markings on the head of the father from the blows received by him.

It is stated that two men who lived in the vicinity of the scene of the murder have suddenly left for parts unknown, and the police are trying to di cover their whereabouts.

The intimate friends of Dr. Ramsey have their suspicions still mainly directed against Clark, and are discovering indications which he has for some time had feelings against Ramsey; but the police say that they did suspect him, but incline now to believe that the circumstances so strongly implicating him can be explained away.

A negro woman who was present at the time says that they are both freshly made; but a negro who lives in the vicinity of the murder, says that a short time since he came upon a man sitting behind the blind, and talked with him upon some indifferent matter. He says the man gave no reason for his sitting there.

From a close scrutiny of all the circumstances, the citizens living near the scene of the murder incline to believe that there were two men engaged in the murder.

Many things point to Clark as the author of the singular discrepancies that exist between the statements of the Boltons, Clark, Mrs. Whitney, and other parties.

GENERAL THOMAS H. TAYLOR.—The face of Memphis was lit up, on yesterday, with the genial smile of our once fellow citizen, General Tom Taylor. The cordial greeting which he received, must have convinced him that the fine impression he made when he was of us was lasting and indelible No man has stronger friends, and more of them, than Tom Taylor. At the close of an honorable and creditable service in the war, he located in Mobile, where he is now engaged in business. We wish him health, property and all the good fortune one so clever so eminently merits.

Dr. A. P. Hill's Cook Book.

M. C. GALLAWAY, Esq.: I send for Mrs. Gallaway a copy of Mrs. A. P. Hill's cook book. Mrs. Hill is the widow of the late Hon. E. Y. Hill of Georgia, one of Georgia's most accomplished Judges. Mrs. Hill's book will commend itself to the public. The author is an acquaintance of mine from my boyhood, and is a lady of extraordinary merit, possessing all the elements of a splendid housewife. To the people of Georgia Mrs. Hill is known as a lady of great attainments, and whose hospitality has gladdened the hearts of the rich and poor. She has written this book to aid her in her advanced age from that poverty common to the South, brought upon her by the result of our late struggle.

This is a Southern book, written by an accomplished Southern lady for her own support, and should receive the patronage of a generous public. We ought to sympathize with and aid each other. This lady gave her entire time during the war to the comfort of sick and distressed Confederate soldiers, and more than all, she dedicated to the "lost cause" two noble boys, as gallant as ever sacrificed upon that cherished altar.

I ask from Memphis a liberal patronage of this book. It is worth many times its price, either to the experienced or inexperienced housekeeper. It can be found at H. Wade & Co's.

Very respectfully, R. J. MORGAN.

THE COTTON TRADE.—The time having arrived that planters should be looking around for a safe and reliable house to transact their yearly business, we would call the attention to the card of J. J. Rawlings & Co., in to-day's issue, an old house that has been selling cotton for this and adjoining States for the last twenty years, and amidst the revolution of trades, the breaking of banks, the failure of merchants and the fraud of war, no planter has ever called on them the second time for his money.

IT IS NOW THE MOST POPULAR MEDICINE.—And why? Because it is superior to all other preparations. We challenge the world to produce a medicine superior to "Dr. C. Williams' Pulmonic Balsam of Wild Cherry and Wood Naptha" for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Spitting of Blood, Bronchitist, Croup, Hooping Cough, Consumption, and all other affections of the Chest and Lungs. It never fails to afford the sufferer prompt and permanent relief. Read advertisement in another column. 1w

Mr. Tatum is, we are pleased to hear, having much success in forming new singing classes in the Rev. Mr. Steadman's chapel and in Asbury Chapel.

The Irish jaunting car, that has attracted a good deal of attention recently, tipped over on Thursday evening and two young ladies were much hurt.

When some yellow damsels were recently outrageously noisy at the Napoleon Saloon, they were threatened with arrest by the police. "Call the police and arrest me," said one of them. "You can't do it. My man is on the police, I'd have you to know."

Some of the colored people are indignant at the Hon. Dave Nunn. It seems, if report is true, that recently a delegation representing colored political influence waited on David to get him to do something or other, and in response Nunn said he hadn't any more use for niggers now."

An accomplished engineer has made estimates of the probable c st of the proposed bulkhead from Wolf river southward, to turn the current of the Mississippi where it is cutting away the Memphis levee, and he is satisfied that the entire expense will amount to three million dollars.

The remains of one of the most excellent women of Memphis, who died in August, far from home, are expected to reach here on Monday or Tuesday. We refer to Mrs. C. L. Ward, wife of Dr. R. D. Ward, of this city, and mother of Mr. Ward of the firm of Ward & Lidiard. She was an exemplary wife and mother, and a large hearted, usefil woman.

The cars on the Memphis and Ohio railroad, marked on the side with monstrous white circles, att act much attention. They belong to the fast freight, all rail, cotton express, of which the popular and reliable Enoch Taylor, Esq., is agent. This great enterprise is destined to work wonders in trade, for it is perfectly reliable and offers great advantages to cotton men.

A daring robbery was attempted at the Allen House, about three o'clock yesterday morning. Three men—a white and two negroes—placed a ladder so that by going up it an entrance could be effected into a window of one of the second story chambers. The white man then made a reconnoissance, and, taking a look into the room, at once returned to the ground to confer. When the white man left the room he chanced to be seen by Mrs. Lynch, a lady inmate of the room, and she ran to the window and gave the alarm, when the three rogues scampered away. Mr. Allen has the ladder still in his possession, and those who want to find the owner of it would be worth the while of the police to inquire what white Radical was the leader of the black rogues.

It is a good old saying that one should give even the devil his due, and therefore it is proper that the Radical Senator who, from this district, General Smith, Representative, in the Hon. M. T. Ryder, and other prominent Radicals, have written a very strong letter, and are exerting all their influence to have the Receivership of the Memphis and Ohio railroad given to some West Tennessean, and not to a person who has no interest in the road or in Memphis. Dr. Cliff has been, it seems, appointed by Governor Brownlow, because he is the father in-law of Jim Brownlow and these Radicals evince public spirit in presenting their remonstrance. They say that it is not a political question, but one that vitally concerns the welfare of Memphis, and that if the road is taken out of the hands of the present managers, it should be given to a Receiver who is a Memphian, and a heavy stockholder in the road. Of course they don't want the father-in-law of Jim Brownlow, who never lived here, owns not a dolla in the road, and is exceedingly likely to turn trade from Memphis to Louisville.

A PRINCELY FIRM.—The great wholesale grocery, cotton factor and commission firm of Wormsley, Joy & Co. is shortly to be located on Adams street, between Main and Second streets. This firm, in the high character of its members, their sterling integrity, their thorough business intelligence and experience, and their honesty and reliability, is second to no similar house in the city of Memphis. It has carried on business for over eighteen y ars in this city, and for sixteen years in New Orleans. In all that time it has been distinguished for strict punctuality in its transactions, and the utmost reliability in the fulfillment of its obligations. This has made it strong in the confidence of planters and the public in a wide district of country. We hope that in its new location it may long sustain the high character it had so worthily established.

The Place Selected for the McCoole-Jones Fight.

LONDON, August 29.—The returns of the Bank of England in bullion have increased £42,000.

PARIS, August 29.—The Moniteur says the recent conference at Salzburg is a new pledge of peace for Europe. Much uneasiness prevails on the Bourse, in consequence of apprehensions of war, and rentes are declining.

LONDON, August 29.—Active preparations are being made by the Board of Admiralty and the War Office for the expedition to Abyssinia to save English prisoners. Sixteen steamers have been chartered to transport troops.

A dispatch from Athens state that the Cretan insurgents still hold out in the mountains, and denounce as false the report that Omar Pacha has succeeded in subduing the rebellion.

CINCINNATI, August 29.—It is understood that the fight between McCoole and Jones will take place somewhere in Butler county, Ohio. Trains will leave the depot of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton railroad, in this city, for the spot, at two o'clock Saturday morning. The fight will commence between six and eight o'clock a.m.

MONTREAL, August 29. Nominations for members of Parliament were made to-day. McGee was hooted at and prevented from speaking. Cartier's friends raised a riot at another place, and Lancelot (Liberal) had to be guarded home. Three men were dangerously beaten and several others injured.

LATER.—The riot in the eastern part of the city was more serious than at first reported. The troops had been called out. The cavalry charged on the mob, and two squadrons had to guard the candidates home. Casualties severe and number over thirty, but none reported fatal.

FONTAINE MONROE, August 30.—Judge Fowler, of the County Court at Williamston, North Carolina, recently gave a decision allowing colored jurors to sit in his court, stating that since the abolition of slavery in 1865, by the State of North Carolina, there was nothing excluding the negroes from acting as jurors, and since the civil rights bill was passed by Congress, granting them all the rights of whites, they were fully entitled to act in the capacity.

WASHINGTON, August 30.—A special to the New York Herald says the truth in regard to the various rumors afloat relative to the rupture between the President and General Grant is that no rupture has taken place; that the two are on the most friendly terms, and Grant has not offered, or the President asked him, to resign his office.

RICHMOND, August 30.—Some negroes having badly beaten a policeman, and stoned two others, at the circus in this city, Wednesday night, a company of United States troops has been sent to the spot to-night, to suppress a riot which is considered imminent.

A Bride in the Wrong Bed.

We have the Cincinnati Enquirer as voucher for the following:

A newly married pair put up at the Spencer House—they went out shopping—returned—bride had left some things—she quietly slipped out—found her lost articles—returned—mistook Main for Broadway—got into the Madison instead of the Spencer—it looked a little strange—asked boy if she was in the Spencer—boy said yes, not fully understanding her—she told him to lead her to 48—he did so—party disrobed and got into bed—expected husband momentarily—fell asleep, the occupant of 48 Madison, an Indiana merchant, returned to the room—to bed—to sleep. The account proceeds:

How long the two reposed there side by side, with only a foot of space between them, unconscious of each other's presence, is not exactly known, but probably about an hour, when a tremendous noise was heard in the apartment, from which female screams issued wildly, piercingly and ceaselessly.

The hotel was in an uproar; proprietors, clerks, waiters, porters and guests, dressed and half-dressed, were at the door of forty-eight in a few minutes, blocking up the entrance, and asking each other eagerly: "What is the matter? for God's sake tell us what is the trouble."

The cause of this outcry may be imagined. The bride had wakened about midnight and putting her arm over her husband, it fell upon the Indianian's face, and the soft warm touch aroused him at once. He did not understand it exactly, though he did not dislike it, and in a moment Mrs. R. said: "My dearest husband, where have you been all this while?"

"Husband!" echoed the merchant, beginning to see, like Lord Tinsel, that he had made a small mistake here; "I'm nobody's husband; I recon, my dear madam, you are in the wrong bed."

In the wrong bed—horrors of horrors thought the young bride. What would her lord—what would the curious world say? And Mrs. R. screamed terribly and sprang from the couch just as her companion done the same. He was fully as much alarmed as she, and entreated her to give him time and he would leave the apartment, although it was the one he had engaged—he'd make oath to that.

Scream, scream, scream, was her only reply to his kindly proposition.

"My God, madam, don't yell so! You will wake the house. Be reasonable; I swear it's only a mistake. Have some though of the consequences, I don't want to hurt you; I swear I don't. You will get me shot, and yourself—

Just at this juncture; the crowd outside presented itself at the door and beheld Mrs. R. cowering in one corner exercising her lungs magnificently, with a sheet wrapped over her form and head, and the Indianan in the middle of the room enveloped in a coverlet, and ejaculating: "My God, madam, don't!"

The junior proprietor Dr. Cahill, saw there must be some mistake, and requesting the others to retire, called the merchant, went out into another room, and there learned the whole story. The Doctor then sent one of the ladies to Mrs. R. and the entire affair was explained greatly to her relief, though she was overwhelmed with confusion at a circumstance that might have ruined her reputation forever.

Under the escort of the Doctor, she was conveyed to the "Spencer" where the husband was found, pacing the corridors, with frantic mein, and half crazed with grief, at the mysterious disappearance of his wife, whom he believed had been spirited away by a villian, or murdered for her jewels, in this "infernal city," where, as he expressed himself, they would kill a man for a dollar.

As soon as he beheld his spouse, he caught her to his bosom and wept like a child. He was melted with happiness at her discovery, and told her that he had searched that city for intelligence of her whereabouts.

BY virtue of a deed of trust made to me as trustee on the 18th day of December, 1866, by R. T. Harrell and wife, duly registered in the Register's office of Tipton county, Tennessee, in record book F, pages 10, 11 and 12, and to which reference is here made, and in pursuance of the terms therein contained, I will, on SATURDAY, the 5th day of October, 1867, between the hours of 11 o'clock a.m. and 3 o'clock p.m., to sell at public auction, in front of the Postoffice in Memphis, Tennessee, situate on the banks of the Mississippi river, adjoining the lands of John Trigg on the north, John and R. Williams on the west, and Potter's land on the east, and Samuel Benton's on the south, containing six hundred acres, (it being the tract of land sold by Susan Brown to B. T. Harrell on the 15th of December, 1865,) said tract of trees and cleared land, all of cattle and hogs, corn and cotton crops on the place, and all farming utensils and mechanics' tools, which will also be sold at the same time.

There is now said to be a magnificent cotton crop growing on the place. There is a comfortable dwelling house, also other outhouses and buildings on the place, and is known as the plantation formerly belonging to Bedford Brown. Bond for sale will be positive, as it is made for the payment of a balance due on the purchase money.

Equity of redemption is waived. The title to said property is believed to be undisputed, but I will only sell and convey as trustee.
